MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Training

SUBJECT : Course Report for CIA Today and Tomorrow

No. 2-74, 15, 16, 17 January 1974

1. General

The fourth running of this course was held in the Headquarters Auditorium on 15-17 January 1974 for a group of over 170 Agency personnel representing all Directorates. The main purpose of the program was to provide an updating of Agency activities, emphasizing current trends and future developments. Senior Agency officials discussed Directorate activities and problems, as well as certain substantive areas--such as the international economic scene, the SALT talks, and an intelligence analysis of the Soviet Union. A great majority of the attendees felt that the course had met its objectives well.

2. Class Statistics

One hundred seventy-two (172) Agency personnel attended the program full-time--eight or ten others attended part-time, swelling the ranks at times to over 180. Of the full-time students the Directorate breakdown was as follows:

DDI	39
DDS&T	44
DDO	44
DDM&S	41
DCI	4
TOTAL	172

Grades ranged from GS-05 to GS-15; the average grade was 11.8.

Length of service ranged from less than one year to 26 years. The average length of service was 18.4 years, indicating a strong interest in this type of "review" program on the part of Agency employees who have been around a long time.

3. Changes and Innovations

Major emphasis in this course continued to be on changes in Agency priorities, missions and organization. Two substantive talks were added, however, one on SALT, the other an intelligence view of the Soviet Union. A separate talk on Terrorism, which we had in the last course was dropped; the topic was covered in other DDO presentations. On an ad hoc basis, the Course Chairman presented a 20-minute presentation on Agency organization at the end of the first day. This appeared to be useful--but would probably be more so if given at the very beginning.

4. Problems Encountered

Course administration ran smoothly. Registration procedures were considerably simplified this time. As in the last class, for various reasons, there were a number of "no shows." We have already discussed this problem with Chief, Registration Group, and the DDO Senior Training Officer, and are now inclined to abandon the Directorate quota system for the next running in April and open the course to all comers. My guess would be that this would result in a total enrollment of between 200-250.

5. Student Reaction

This was highly favorable. A number of positive suggestions for improving the program were also made. These will be taken into consideration in planning the next course. A summary of student reaction is contained in Attachment C.

6. Summary

The response to this three-day program continues to be enthusiastic. As in the last course, the recent overseas returnees--both DDO and DDM&S--seemed to be particularly grateful for this opportunity to bring themselves up-to-date.

Designed in part to take a look at the Agency's future, the course is always more successful in its presentation of "Today" rather than "Tomorrow." This is understandable in view of the uncertainties of the future and the difficulty of long-range planning; nevertheless we plan to press further on this point, encouraging speakers to provide as much insight as possible on future developments in the Agency as well as current activities.
